What's the best place to save for Cowboys, Indians and Space Cadets?

Of all the reasons for saving money—and there are hundreds—certainly none is bigger or more important than building up a nest-egg to take care of your children's future.

And where's the best place to build up your nest-egg?

Right now, 14 million Americans think the best place is an insured Savings and Loan Association!

In fact, Americans are now putting more of their savings account dollars into these Associations than anywhere else. The reasons are simple:

ONE-You get excellent returns. That's because insured Savings and Loan Associations invest most of their funds in sound, steady-paying home mortgages.

TWO-You have complete safety. Your savings are protected by good management and substantial reserves. They are insured up to $10,000 by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation—an agency of the U.S. Government.

THREE—These Associations are local organizations. They offer friendly, helpful and convenient service.

And here's another point: When you're thinking of buying a home, remember that insured Savings and Loan Associations are the nation's largest single source of home mortgage loans. They make liberal loans. They see to it that you get the money quickly—and at moderate rates. Why not come in and open savings accounts for yourself and for your children today. And if you need a home mortgage loan, let's talk about

Airline Subsidies May Be Ended

Subsidies to American airlines cost the taxpayer about $74 million in the fiscal year 1954 and will cost him about $701/2 million this fiscal year. In the next fiscal year, for which Congress is now appropriating, the cost will be about $63 million. These subsidies are in addition to government (1) payments for carrying the mails, (2) contributions toward construction of airports, and (3) aid in maintaining a national airways system.

They are granted under the Civil Aeronautics Act of 1938. This directed the Civil Aeronautics Board to fix compensation for carrying the mails in such amounts as would enable the air carriers, together with their other revenues, "to maintain and continue the development of air transportation to the extent and of the character and quality required for the commerce of the United States, the Postal Service, and the national defense.'

Compensation for carrying the mails was separated from the subsidy payments in 1953. Thus the amounts cited above represent subventions.

Now Louis S. Rothschild, under secretary of commerce for transportation, has recommended that subsidies be terminated for at least some types of air carriers. "For example." he told the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee on May 2, "the domestic trunk lines have reached a state of development where consideration should be given to their complete removal from subsidy eligibility at some reasonably early

The Civil Aeronautics Board reported at about the same time that the country's chief air lines had flown more miles, carried more passengers, and made more money during the early months of 1955 than in any corresponding period of their history. CAB Chairman Ross Rizley said this would be "the best year they ever had." Undoubtedly many of the trunk lines are now paying their way and could get along without special aid from the government, but this is not true of all carriers.

The fact is that estimated subsidy payments for domestic trunk lines during the next fiscal year will amount to only $41/2 million. Local service carriers, which are important feeders for the trunk lines, will get about $25 million, and international operations will be subsidized to the extent of $211/2 million. Payments to Alaskan and Hawaiian services, and various helicopter operations, make up the remainder of the estimated subsidy outlays.

Mao And Chou

It is usual for governments to become aware of the peculiarities and significance of the personalities with whom they have to deal in another country. Thus, when Litvinov was the Russian minister of foreign affairs, he seemed a very significant personality although the fact always was that he never played a great role in the Kremlin. While Molotov is a greater figure than Litvinov, he never was as important as Stalin nor is he on a par today with Khrushchev.

Similarly, while an enormous build-up seems to be in the making for Chou En-lai, who attends international conferences and conducts the foreign policy of his country, the fact is that the boss is Mao Tze-tung whose prestige is colossal not only in Red China but throughout the Communist world. He is regarded as the foremost Marxist theoretician of this period and his writings have been collected and published in all languages. As a Marxist thinker, he is considered superior to any Russian of these

It is foolhardy to believe that Mao Tze-tung has been replaced by Chou En-lai or that the latter can make a move without the approval of Mao and through him of the international Communist organization which centers in the Kremlin. The Soviet universe is one and is centrally directed.

Mao, like Stalin, remains aloof because, in his position, It is difficult to retreat from a stand once taken. Chou's situation is more like Molotov's. While he represents the point of view of the Politburo, he may shift or even retreat without loss of dignity. The current effort to give Europeans and Americans an incorrect picture of Chou's position is characteristic of Mao's reticence in dealing with foreigners for whom he has no liking.

Mao Tze-tung is a curious man. Essentially a student of philosophy, he is not a man of action. Nevertheless he has lived in an armed camp most of his adult life and has been forced by circumstances to forego the classroom for the world of intense and dangerous action. With General Chu Teh, he kept the Communist army intact and in fighting condition for about 30 years. Now that he can have his way, he has resumed the contemplative life.

A Marxist since his student days at the Peking National University, he never defected to the Trotzkyist side as did so many of the early Chinese Communists. He accepted discipline and now demands obedience.

Born in 1893 in Hunan Province, he set out to be a professor and studied under such men as Hu Shih and Monling Chiang. He was a founder of the Chinese Communist party in 1921 when the leader was Chen Tu-shu, also a philosopher and highly respected among Chinese. Chen had come under the influence of Karl Radek, an early Bolshevik leader who for a time directed the China policy of Soviet Russia.

After the 1925-27 revolution, which brought Chiang Kai-shek to power, Chen Tu-shu and other Trotzkyists were ousted from the leadership of the Chinese Communist party and Chu Teh and Mao Tze-tung rose. In fact, references to this leadership in the early days were to

Mao Tze-tung overcame the superiority of Chu Teh without in any way destroying their personal or political friendship. Simply, Chu Teh, the military man, became second to Mao Tze-tung, the political thinker. Chu never protested his reduction; he accepted it as normal that a superior mind should dominate a military activist. After the Hunan Autumn Uprising in 1927, Mao Tze-tung's leadership of the Chinese Communist party was unquestioned. This uprising is significant because it marks the final split between the Kuomintang (Nationalists) and the Communists after Chiang had established the Nanking

In the organization of the Communist government of Peking, Mao Tze-tung has been the top figure since 1949 when it came into existence. His close associates are Chu Teh and Liu Shao-chi. Should Mao die, it is likely that Liu Shao-chi will emerge to the top, just as in Soviet Russia, it was not Molotov but Khrushchev who emerged as leader. At present the leadership in China consists, in this order, of Mao Tze-tung, Chu Teh, Liu Shao-chi, Chen Yun and Chou En-lai.

White House Ponders Replacing Dulles With George As Secretary Of State

WASHINGTON - Just how far the conversations will go remains to be seen, but Ike's advisers have been discussing the idea of making 77-year-old Senator George of Georgia secretary of state in place of

John Foster Dulles. Three factors are behind the discussions, as follows and in reverse order of their importance:

1. Senator George probably can't be re-elected next year partly because of his age; partly because of his vigorous opponent, ex-Gov. Herman Talmadge; and partly because of his support of Eisenhower, especially on the $20 tax cut has hurt him seriously in Georgia. George's political future is not, of course, uppermost in White House minds as a reason for making him secretary of state.

2. More important is the fact that John Foster Dulles has taken so many different stands on so many different issues that he's become a political liability. Right-wing Republicans dislike hm even more than the Democrats. His handling of the Yalta papers and Ed Corsi climaxed a long series of ineptitudes. In addition, Sir Anthony Eden dislikes Dulles with a passion that doesn't help Anglo-American relations a bit.

3 Eisenhower advisers are worried about political repercussions from present policies in the Far East and feel that it would be much better to "embrace" a good conservative Democrat who could share the blame.

serious dangers. Can Help Wreck Home

Big business is surely contributing to juvenile deliquency by the high priority it claims on a man's evenings and weekends. When father should be spending time with his wife and children he is entertaining customers or whittling down the paper work on his desk. He is a stranger in his own home. This almost hysterical pursuit of family life is evidence of the decline in moral values that has hit too many business executives. There are millions of sad homes across the land, homes where fathers have awakened with a jolt to find sons already grown up. Sons have gotten into serious difficulties because they never received the kind of guidance and discipline they needed from father. I recall a plaintive cry from a "corporation wife" which appeared in Forago. She particularly condemned the type and amount of entertainment that she, as a corporation wife, was expected to offer to her husband's business associates. In this case, the corporation left little time for either parent to spend wilth the children.

"Whoever heard of such a ridiculous idea? We're all too busy," was the reply. Don't blame the schools for all the shortcomings of the younger generation!

Responsibility of Big Business

How often have you heard a tune magazine a couple of years business executive say that he doesn't want his children to work as hard as he has had to? So he hands them out fat allowances, automobiles, expensive education, and perhaps even subsidies for marriage. This eases his conscience; he can say he has given his children everything, "everything," the children will tell you, except what they really wanted most -companionship.

Such prolonged wet-nursing can develop a generation of young people who are egocentric, emotionally immature, and who believe the pace business sets has something to do with the situation. Airline Subsidies May Be Ended

Subsidies to American airlines cost the taxpayer about $74 million in the fiscal year 1954 and will cost him about $701/2 million this fiscal year. In the next fiscal year, for which Congress is now appropriating, the cost will be about $63 million. These subsidies are in addition to government (1) payments for carrying the mails, (2) contributions toward construction of airports, and (3) aid in maintaining a national airways system.

They are granted under the Civil Aeronautics Act of 1938. This directed the Civil Aeronautics Board to fix compensation for carrying the mails in such amounts as would enable the air carriers, together with their other revenues, "to maintain and continue the development of air transportation to the extent and of the character and quality required for the commerce of the United States, the Postal Service, and the national defense.'

Compensation for carrying the mails was separated from the subsidy payments in 1953. Thus the amounts cited above represent subventions.

Now Louis S. Rothschild, under secretary of commerce for transportation, has recommended that subsidies be terminated for at least some types of air carriers. "For example," he told the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee on May 2, "the domestic trunk lines have reached a state of development where consideration should be given to their complete removal from subsidy eligibility at some reasonably early date."

The Civil Aeronautics Board reported at about the same time that the country's chief air lines had flown more miles, carried more passengers, and made more money during the early months of 1955 than in any corresponding period of their history. CAB Chairman Ross Rizley said this would be "the best year they ever had." Undoubtedly many of the trunk lines are now paying their way and could get along without special aid from the government, but this is not true of all carriers.

The fact is that estimated subsidy payments for domestic trunk lines during the next fiscal year will amount to only $41/2 million. Local service carriers, which are important feeders for the trunk lines, will get about $25 million, and international operations will be subsidized to the extent of $211/2 million. Payments to Alaskan and Hawaiian services, and various helicopter operations, make up the remainder of the estimated subsidy outlays.

White House Ponders Replacing Dulles With George As Secretary Of State

WASHINGTON - Just how far the conversations will go remains to be seen, but Ike's advisers have been discussing the idea of making 77-year-old Senator George of Georgia secretary of state in place of John Foster Dulles.

Three factors are behind the discussions, as follows and in reverse order of their importance:

1. Senator George probably can't be re-elected next year partly because of his age; partly because of his vigorous opponent, ex-Gov. Herman Talmadge; and partly because of his support of Eisenhower, especially on the $20 tax cut has hurt him seriously in Georgia. George's political future is not, of course, uppermost in White House minds as a reason for making him secretary of state.

2. More important is the fact that John Foster Dulles has taken so many different stands on so many different issues that he's become a political liability. Right-wing Republicans dislike hm even more than the Democrats, His handling of the Yalta papers and Ed Corsi climaxed a long series of ineptitudes. In addition, Sir Anthony Eden dislikes Dulles with a passion that doesn't help Anglo-American relations a bit.

3 Eisenhower advisers are worried about political repercussions from present policies in the Far East and feel that it would be much better to "embrace" a good conservative Democrat who could share the blame.

Washington Talk Of War Changes To Talk Of Peace

The change of atmosphere in Washington in the last few weeks is astonishing. Hardly a month ago there was more war talk than at any time since the Korean War. Now the talk is all of peace, with President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles both on record with optimistic remarks about the prospects. Why the change?

Partly, perhaps, it is wishful thinking induced by handsome spring weather. Partly, certainly, it is because of the carefully hedged Chinese Communist offer to newillingness of the Soviets to withthe first post-war withdrawal of Soviet troops from Soviet- occupied territory. But in addition, there has also been a steadily growing belief in the Eisenhower administration that the Soviet regime may genuinely wish a period of relaxation of war tension. There have been seemingly reliable reports that the Soviets restrained their Chinese Communist allies at the height of the Formosa crisis. But the belief that the Soviets may want a breathing spell, which is of course, still very tentative, is also based on the following factors: Serious Agriculture Crisis

First, there is no doubt that Soviet agriculture is faced with a most serious crisis. Careful analysis suggests that the Russian urban population is growing at a rate of 41/2 per cent a year, while food production is increasing at hardly more than half that rate. This analysis is largely confirmed by Communist party boss Khrushchev himself, and by other party leaders, who have made no bones about the seriousness of the crisis. Population growing at double the rate of food production is a formula of eventual famine, as any child can see. The Khrushchev plan for averting this disaster envisages heavily mechanized agriculture in the arid, virgin lands of the Soviet by either knavery or honesty, He

Theory May Be Wrong

It seems to be a law of nature that professional soldiers-at least ground soldiers - are cautious about political adventures and over-extended commitments (President Eisenhower and Gen. Ridgway seem to be obeying this law here in the United States). It may be that the Red army leaders, faced with an over-strained economy at home and risky commitments abroad, really are eager for a period of relaxation and retrenchment perhaps even for the kind of "you stay in your back yard Early in 1914 Pennsylvania Ave- and I'll stay in my back yard" arnue ran influence from curb to rangement that soldiers like.

This is not practical at present but, by planning for the future. much can be done to keep the air cleaner and safer.

The inhabitants have the choice

Smog is a medical hazard if it contains a high concentration of poisonous chemicals or substances that irritate the mucous membranes of the body. When pollution is high, most exposed persons encounter smarting eyes and irritatrespiratory passageways. Coughing and chest pain are not unusual.

Persons who are older or have heart disease become short of breath and weak: occasionally they collapse. The same occurs in victims of bronchitis, emphysema, bronchial asthma or other chronic chest diseases. Some indiache and hacking develop.

These symptoms are more inconvenient than disabling and usually disappear as soon as the air clears. But physicians are concerned with the effects of even moderate exposure over a long period of time. Will irritation lead to malignancy? Some authorities are of the opinion that air pollution is a more logical cause of lung cancer than is smoking.

Many of the chemicals spewed into the air have been isolated and found to produce cancer in laboratory animals. Lung cancer also is more common in the urban population and among our menfolk who receive the greatest exposure. Tomorrow: Rheumatoid arthritis

Second, there's the right wing-China lobby segment of the Republican party represented by Senators Knowland of California and Bridges of New Hampshire.

Ike-advisers know that attacks by this wing of the party almost succeeded in putting the "traitor" label on Dean Acheson, and they don't want that skilled propaganda machine directed against Ike. However, a Democratic secretary of state, especially one of Senator George's prestige, would soften attacks from the Republican right yet nullify completely any Democratic criticism for risking war. Furthermore, if Indochina is completely lost to the Communists, as now seems likely, a Democratic secretary of state would soften the bitter attacks sure to be leveled at an administration which loses a sizable chunk of the free world.

When praising the "American way" of free enterprise, let us not forget that it has serious dangers.

Can Help Wreck Home

Big business is surely contributing to juvenile deliquency by the high priority it claims on a man's evenings and weekends. When father should be spending time with his wife and children he is entertaining customers or whittling down the paper work on his desk. He is a stranger in his own home. This almost hysterical pursuit of company business at any cost to family life is evidence of the decline in moral values that has hit

too many business executives. There are millions of sad homes across the land, homes where fathers have awakened with a jolt to find sons already grown up. Sons have gotten into serious difficulties because they never received the kind of guidance and discipline they needed from father. I recall a plaintive cry from a "corporation wife" which appeared in Fortune magazine a couple of years ago. She particularly condemned the type and amount of entertainment that she, as a corporation wife, was expected to offer to her husband's business associates. In this case, the corporation left little time for either parent to spend

wilth the children. Constant Change Dangerous

It is a mistake for companies not to allow sales managers to stay in come part of their community. They must move every two or become irritable; children have a family don't have a chance.

A friend recently stated that when he suggested a plan for fathers and sons to raise money together by planting and marketing certain garden crops, he was nearly booed out of the meeting. "Whoever heard of such a ridiculous idea? We're all too busy," was the reply. Don't blame the schools for all the shortcomings of the younger generation!

Responsibility of Big Business

How often have you heard a business executive say that he doesn't want his children to work as hard as he has had to? So he hands them out fat allowances, automobiles, expensive education, and perhaps even subsidies for marriage. This eases his conscience; he can say he has given his children everything, "everything," the children will tell you, except what they really wanted most -companionship.

At the particular table in reference West opened the diamond jack and South won with the king. Obviously, South could count a minimum of nine tricks, but making only nine tricks, if other declarers made more, wouldn't be good enough, so at Trick 2 South overtook the spade ten with the jack, to return the club ten through East. Naturally, South intended to pass this trick to the non-danger hand, West. The ten might well drive out the king, and it might then be possible to run the rest of the club suit.

But when the club ten was led from the dummy, something happened! East, with no hesitation, played the club King!

Now (apparently) 13 tricks were in plain sight for declarer, and the latter could not be blamed for "falling." At duplicate, he simply could not afford to give up all those extra tricks. So he captured East's king and promptly led the club seven, finessing against the jack. His horror, when East took the trick and returned a diamond through the Q-6, can easily be imagined. Seats Placed

Seating arrangements for the Constitution Park Amphitheater will be completed within the next few days, according to Robert R. Golden, superintendent.

He said the benches installed when the project is completed will offer seating facilities for more than 900 persons, and that the natural bowl has space for at least hree times that number of seats. Golden and his assistants have already installed 116 benches which were built at the park this spring. Constructed of oak lumber furnished by the Evitts Creek Water been stained and varnished. The park workers have also intalled about half of the 64

Seats Placed today she would decline any pension voted by Congress for widows

Seating arrangements for the Constitution Park Amphitheater will be completed within the next few days, according to Robert R. Golden, superintendent.

He said the benches installed when the project is completed will offer seating facilities for more than 900 persons, and that the natural bowl has space for at least hree times that number of seats.

Golden and his assistants have already installed 116 benches which were built at the park this spring. Constructed of oak lumber furnished by the Evitts Creek Water Company, the new benches have been stained and varnished.

The park workers have also installed about half of the 64 benches which came from Riverside Park, where they cannot be used due to construction projects. Golden said only a few minor jobs remain to put the amphitheater in good shape for summer ac-

Mother Of Year

Mrs. Carl Johnson Jr., designated as "Mother of the Year" by the congregation of First Christian Church here, receives a white Bible as a gift from the church members in recognition of her activities. Her husband, Rev. Carl Johnson Jr., pastor of the church, looks on. Mother of three children, she is superintendent of the children's department of the Sunday school, and is president of the Christian Women's Fellowship at the church. A registered nurse, she worked until recently in the pediatrics section of Sacred Heart Hospital.
